The DIMMER VIEW

by Max Goodwin

A View of the Energy Crisis

There are many questions about the shortage of energy supplies. Big oil has done nothing to resolve these questions. More to the point, big oil has made an announced energy crisis questionable.

Few will forget the "shortage" a couple of years back while big oil tankers were waiting to get bunkers at many oil harbors. There simply wasn't storage space for the oil being imported.

Today, the high cost of gasoline and the 55 miles an hour speed limit has reduced consumption to the point where big oil supplies are overrunning storage capacities.

In spite of the overrun, big oil increased the price of gasoline again last week. A similar problem exists with gas — the kind we cook and heat with.

We looked to the National Association of Manufacturers (which represents big business) for its answer to the energy crisis — real and imaginary. Here's what they report:

Q. — ARE WE RUNNING OUT OF ENERGY?

Two recent studies considered authoritative said the world's use of oil could exceed the world's production of oil by 1981 or 1985 (depending on which study is quoted), causing global shortages and higher prices. Presumably, there are oil deposits still undiscovered but just how much is debatable. The only country capable of stepping up production of known supplies is Saudi Arabia. Whether it will do so is another matter since that Middle East Nation has trouble now spending the income it gets from its current production of 9-10 million barrels a day.

In the U.S., declining production and increased use has forced us to import more and more oil so that today 48 per cent — nearly half — of our liquid petroleum comes from foreign sources. In the 1950s and 1960s, the use of oil shot up nearly 90 per cent. After price controls were imposed on crude oil in 1972, production dropped 15 per cent. The highest consumption rate was for natural gas, probably our scarcest fuel. One of the lowest consumption rates was for coal, our most abundant domestic fuel. Nuclear power still provides only a fraction of U.S. energy needs and alternative sources such as solar energy are far in the future.

Q. — WHY IS NATURAL GAS IN SUCH SHORT SUPPLY?

Like crude oil, natural gas has been subject to government price controls, only for a much longer time. In 1954, the Supreme Court ruled that the Federal Power Commission (FPC) could regulate natural gas at the wellhead so long as the gas was sold across state lines. For for than two decades, then, the prices has been kept artificially low, making natural gas much in demand and at the same time reducing incentives on the part of producers to search for new supplies. The consequences were inevitable and a natural gas crisis, so to speak, was born in 1968, the first year that consumption exceeded the discovery of new reserves.

Industry people argue that freeing new gas from wellhead controls would let market forces determine the price, give producers the incentive to go after new reserves and, as the price rises, encourage conservation of this important fuel.

IF COAL IS SO PLENTIFUL, WHY DON'T WE USE MORE OF IT?

Estimates of just how much coal we have vary but it's believed that currently recoverable reserves would last from 300 to 400 years, maybe more. Seventy-five years ago, coal provided 90 per cent of our energy. Now it provides only 17 or 18 per cent.

There is more than one reason for this and a large part of the answer lies in the consequences of government actions in other fields. The artificially low price of natural gas drew off industries and individuals formerly using coal. Tough air pollution laws forced companies to convert to cleaner-burning gas, and scared off investors in coal. Also, the oil — which gradually replaced coal as the main fuel for east coast generating states — had its impact.

Coal producers see further threats in pending legislation with excessive regulations against surface (strip) mining. Half of all electricity in the U.S. is generated by burning coal, and 60 per cent of that is surface mined, they point out.

LG Classified Employees Give Nod To New Contract

The classified employees of the Lemon Grove School District by a 49 to 2 vote Monday afternoon have ratified a new two-year contract complete with a 5 per cent across the board pay increase.

The contract, signed by the school board and the local Lemon Grove, California School Employees Association gives all workers the flat 5 per cent increase for 1977-78 and grants workers who have been with the district 5 years or more another three per cent increase.

In addition to the 8 per cent total increase afforded to the longer employed, a new vacation step was created for employees who have been with the district at least 10 years.

The district grants vacations in increments of ten, 15, 18, and 20 days depending on the length of service.

Another feature of the new contract was a clause which allows both the Board and the employees to select two reopeners.

The Employees Association has already asked that negotiations be held next year on the salary aspect of the document while the board has the option to select another two clauses by March 1, 1978.

Essentially, the reopener clauses avoid having to duplicate many of the 81 pages found in the contract and allows opening on only the articles of concern such as salaries.

Signing the contract for CSEA employees was representative Tony Fernandes.

In other business by the School Board:

The board honored retiring employees.

The board also said it would ask for bids on milk in early July.

Stewart Fisher, Principal of Palm Junior High, presented a parent survey he conducted which showed the parents overall approve of the teaching at Palm.

The Board also discussed the effects on the local budget and future budgets from the outcome of pending legislation in Sacramento implementing the Serrano decision.

The trustees voted to hire designated teachers for summer school and to file federal Health, Education, and Welfare documents for handicapped students.

C-Day Comes July 1

Eyes Turn Toward July 1 For County's Newest City

Wanted: A city clerk and a city attorney for Lemon Grove, the newest city in San Diego county.

Applicants will be required to have proficiency in their field and knowledge of the workings of municipal government to help establish a city government for a small suburban community.

Applicants should apply now at the County of San Diego's personnel office, 1375 Pacific highway in San Diego.

Lemon Grove, with the help of the County, is taking its first steps down the road towards cityhood. By July 1, the new city needs to hire a city clerk and a city attorney. Both positions will participate in forming the new city government.

According to Tom Park, the County's liaison with the new Lemon Grove City Council, "It's like drawing on a blank canvas. Most jobs you plan to fill have already been established by someone else. With a new city you can set up the way you want to."

Parks To Stay

Parks in his position as County liaison to Lemon Grove will help the fledging city through the first year of existence. On July 1, the city becomes an independent governing body but for the first year County services to the 3.75 square mile area will continue at present levels.

"At the end of the first year the city will decide what services it will take over and what will be provided through contract to the County," said Parks.

Presently the County is helping the elected, but as yet unofficial, city council prepare for the July 1 deadline.

The County has drawn up ordinances the city will need for the first city council meeting, set up a tentative budget and briefed the council members on the departments the new city will be dealing with.

"There are a lot of things we need to do before then, yet the city of Lemon Grove isn't official until July 1. We can't advertise for jobs or rent a space to operate from until we have become a city and have money to operate," said Jim Dorman, a Lemon Grove city councilman-elect.

Dorman and the other four members of tht city council (Dale Lake, the Rev. W. Dale Bailey, Dr. Robert Burns and Jack Doherty) serve as an advisory council to the Board of Supervisors on matters pertaining to Lemon Grove until they assume their new duties July 1.

Head Men

The new city will operate under the council/city manager form of government.

Council members select a mayor from among themselves and that person presides over city council meetings and serves as the ceremonial head of the city. The council-elect earlier voted unanimously for Dorman as Mayor and Dr. Burns vice-Mayor. The city manager will carry out the day-to-day operation of the city and will be responsible to the full council for his or her decisions.

"One of the first things the council will be doing is taking a good look at our community and then take steps to improve the services to Lemon Grove," said Dorman.

According to Dorman, one of the reasons the voters wanted to incorporate Lemon Grove as a city was to upgrade the services to the area. As far as the number of people per square mile, Lemon Grove ranks approximately fourth in density among communities in the county, yet the services are divided among several different agencies.

Most of the existing services and special districts in the area will be reorganized under the city of Lemon Grove.

"When we agreed to reorganization, the County agreed to be the lead agency in other words, foot the bill for the change over," said Dorman.

Lower Tax Rate

According to Dorman, the result of all this should be a lower tax rate by 1978. For the first year, the city has no taxing power, but by the following July, the city should realize an 11 cent drop in the tax rate.

"In addition, sales taxes and use taxes generated in this area which now go to the County will be paid to Lemon Grove after July 1," said Dorman.

"Creating a new city government is interesting and challenging. We have received a lot of valuable citizen input about organizing the new city of Lemon Grove," he said.

The city council meets at 7 p.m. each Thursday at the Lemon Grove Fire Station until July 1 when the city becomes official and the council's powers are activated.

There will be a ceremonial council meeting on July 1 at the Lemon Grove Junior High school auditorium.

Thursday's council meeting was the kind that may be expected next month.

Citizens' Problems

Citizen Larry Boerner asked for relief regarding a S.D. County staff order to install sidewalks and curbs on his Imperial (near Grove) st. property. The council will ask the board of supervisors to issue a "lien contract" which holds Boerner to the order but holds it in obeyance until setbacks on Imperial are settled. He said that the set-back varies from lot to lot.

Jose Uribe of the Golden Avenue Community School asked the council to institute action that would provide a crosswalk on School lane opposite the Thrifty-Food Basket shopping center. Uribe said it was a quarter mile between present crosswalks and that youngsters cross over for ice cream and candy purchases at the two stores. Two accidents occurred in the area in the past three months, he said.

Park Problems Stay

A discussion regarding the L.G. Park found solutions still far away. Councilman Burns provided a map and some suggestions to ease the situation which centers around noise, mostly. He said that residents in the area are so diverse in their opinions that no ultimate solution will satisfy everyone. But, he said, the council will keep on trying.

L.G. Fire Chief Back From School

Lemon Grove Fire Chief Bob Adams returned from a week's schooling at Monterey where 31 chiefs from various parts of the nation took part in the federal government's first "Fire Protection and Control Master Planning" seminar.

The course is sponsored by the National Fire Protection and Control Administration of Washington D.C. — a federal agency.

"It appears the feds are getting into local fire business," Chief Adams said.

What is a City?

POWERS AND LIMITATIONS

In 1879, the California Constitution was amended to grant local jurisdictions to the five five basic grants of home rule.

And when the term "home rule"is used, we refer to the "structure" made up of those five cornerstones:

1. Cities may enact any local "regulation" which is not in conflict with state law.
2. The state may not enact special laws which affect specific cities;
3. The state shall not impose local taxes, but instead keep its taxing authority restricted to state purposes on an across-the-board basis;
4. Cities may provide and have penary jurisdiction with respect to municipal utilities; and
5. Chartered cities may exercise exclusive jurisdiction over "municipal affairs."

Over the years, limitations have been imposed by statute and case law upon these home rule cities. Some of the more important restrictions are:

1. LIMITATIONS ON SECRECY

THE BROWN ACT. The Ralph M. Brown Act is a law which provides that no city board — whether the city council, the library board, the park and recreation commission or any other commission or official committee thereof — shall hold any meeting at which action is taken other than a duly called and regularly held meeting, notice of which is provided either by ordinance or resolution, or special call, or by adjournment of a prior meeting.

A "meeting" taken place whenever a quorum is present and official business is conducted; excluded are certain labor, personnel and "attorney" sessions.

THE PUBLIC RECORDS ACT. This law provides that all public records are available to any interested citizen and may be inspected at any reasonable time at the city clerk's office.

Reasonable rules designed to protect the records or expedite work may be permitted.

Upset

Q. Since we lost our five-year-old son my husband has been quite upset. He wanted to know why a child would suffer through the agony of harsh death.

I couldn't find any words of comfort for him even though I know God has a purpose for it all.

This is just one event that made me know I don't have enough faith or common sense. I feel confused about how I believe and I don't know where to turn to learn to have more faith or common sense. Can you please help me

A. It is natural to be disturbed and perhaps even bit ter and questioning under the circumstances you describe.

God never promised anybody freedom from sorrow or suffering. Even Jesus suffered acutely. But he does promise His love and peace. The ultimate wisdom is to trust Him and let Him heal your broken hearts.

We are sending you a copy of our booklet LET NOT YOUR HEART BE TROUBLED which has helped others with questions such as yours. Anyone reading this column who wishes a free copy may write for one. Address your request to Dr. and Mrs. Peale, Box 500, Pawling NY 12564.

Forger Comes Clean

Q. I have been in and out of prison most of my life, and believe me I know I have wasted a good many years doing it.

I am presently serving a one-to-ten-year sentence for forgery, and I hope that it will be my last time behind bars.

But if not I can only say I hope if I can't someone may profit by my blundering mistakes.

It seems that everything I do or try to accomplish in my life turns to bitterness and despair. I always get caught.

I have tried God but that soon played out too.

I'm not feeling sorry for myself, I'm just telling you LIKE IT IS. If there is anything that you could suggest that might prove beneficial I certainly would appreciate it.

A. In our opinion your problem is that you have accepted yourself as you think you are. And as long as you continue to see yourself this way you will continue in and out of prison.

You asked for a suggestion that might prove beneficial—and here it is. Start seeing yourself as a totally changed person: organized, controlled and successful. Develop a different and creative self-image. You can become in actuality what you see yourself as being.

And don't give up on God so easily. He'll never give up on you.

Getting It On

Q. My daughter, 20, I found out has been intimate with her boy friend. Our family doesn't condone this sort of thing.

"Bring a child up in the way he should go . . . and he will never depart from it" isn't true any more.

My daughter and her friend are around the house all the time.

I can't live with this when I know it's wrong. Is it a sin? Should I tell her to leave if she won't stop?

A. Despite the current movies, magazines and books, intimate sex relations outside of marriage is till a sin.

No matter how a reader may react to that statement, the fact remains that in Christian thinking such action piolates the moral code, a code given out of God's wisdom to enhance, not inhibit, human happiness.

You are not required to allow a situation in which sinful practices are being carried on in your own home against your moral principles. Tell your daughter to cut it out or go elsewhere. You don't need to let her dominate you.

Perhaps you would like to find an answer for yourself to a problem that you can share with others in THERE'S AN ANSWER! If there is something you would like to ask Dr. and Mrs. Peale to discuss in this column, write to them in care of Box 500, Pawling, NY 12564.

SACRAMENTO—DMV director Herman Sillas said he employees have come up with some $97,000 worth of ideas to make the department operate more efficiently.

"We're trying to maintain an open atmosphere at DMV," Sillas said, "one which helps employees view departmental processes from a broader perspective and stimulates interaction at all levels."

Sillas said his employees have increased suggestions by 400 percent and added, "We think this tremendous effort by the employees is evidence that we are doing it."

One employee, before retiring last January, found a way to streamline the paper work involved in the seizure and sale of vehicles with overdue registration fees. The idea had a projected savings value of some $195,000.

Another employee, a clerk typist, suggested the DMV eliminate a form letter sent to insurance companies. This idea saved some $21,000.

Sillas said 53 suggestions developed by some 120 employees including clerks, supervisors, examiners, and managers throughout the state provided significant savings in tax dollars while another 67 suggestions streamlined DMV operations.

This Week's RECIPE

Father's Day Steak

The federal government now states raising one child from infancy to college costs nearly $250,000.

With that in mind this Sunday for Father's Day, maybe dad should be indulged with something a bit extravagant.

This week's recipe is steak sonoran style.

STEAK SONORAN STYLE

4 rib eye (boneless) steaks
salt and pepper to taste
2 avocadoes, peeled and seeded salsa sauce (recipe follows)

Broil or grill steaks to taste. Salt and pepper as desired and then before serving layer each steak with slices of avocado. Spoon ¼ cup salsa over each steak.

SALSA SAUCE

1 (8 oz.) can tomato sauce
1 (4 oz.) can diced green chilis
½ cup chopped onion
½ cup chopped green pepper
1 teaspoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon tobasco sauce

Blend all ingredients in small bowl.

Error Corrected

New Women's Club Formed For Presiding Officers

Editor's Note: Last week we incorrectly reported on a new club forming for the District's evening section past presiding officers. Assuming full responsibility for the error, we hope this correction stands as our apology to the evening section women of Southern District no. 26.

A special meeting for a new past presiding officers club for all of Southern District no. 26, California Federation of Women's Clubs, will be held at 11:30 a.m. September 10 at a place to be announced later.

We reported incorrectly last week the club would encompass only members of the Spring Valley Woman's Club evening section, Junta de la Noche.

The new club in fact will take in all past presiding officers of the seven evening section clubs in Southern District no. 26.

A no host brunch was held at the Glenn in Bonita June 4 to form this new Southern District no. 26 club for Evening Section Past Presiding Officers.

Five of the seven evening section clubs were represented at the meeting including Chula Vista Evening Section, the El Cajon Evening-Les Amies, the La Mesa-Evening Belles, the Lemon Grove-Evening Vogues, and the Spring Valley-Junta de la Noche.

Also present at the meeting was Southern District no. 26 Evening Section Co-ordinator May Williams.

The by-laws committee drafting the new club's organization included Nadine Maczko, President of Southern District no. 26, California Federation of Women's Clubs; Mary Sisskind, third vice president (membership) for District no. 26; Grace Graham, past presiding officer of Les Amies in El Cajon; Martha Axsom, past presiding officer of the Chula Vista Evening Section; and Sylvia L. Remers, past presiding officer of Junta de la Noche in Spring Valley.

The by-laws were approved by the 14 voting members present.

The name of the new Southern District no. 26 club was selected from a suggestion by Arlene Walters of Chula Vista's Evening Section. The name chosen was "ESPPO", the acronym for Evening Secteion Past Presiding Officers.

The approval of the by-laws and original charter is expected from the California Federation of Women's Clubs by mid-Fall.

Sweet Adelines at Fair

Singing Hills Chapter, Sweet Adelines Inc., under the directeion of Pat Morse, will entertain for the third consecutive year at the Del Mar Fair.

S.V. Women Meet Wed.

Experiment Shows Success

Reading Plan May Help To Increase Proficiency

SACRAMENTO — State Department of Education head Wilson Riles said five experimental reading programs set up in various areas throughout California have reported breakthroughs in the fight to upgrade student reading habits.

Riles said preliminary results show reading ability to be enhanced some 2.5 times the normal rate by the new teaching tactics used.

Basically, teachers in the experimental schools divided reading instructions into many small steps to isolate more accurately the child's particular reading problem.

When the actual problem was identified, it then could be corrected, Riles said.

The main elements of the reading program were —

—teacher re-training to identify more accurately reading problems,

—shortened reading lessons devoted to a single reading skill,

—immediate testing of the skill before moving onto another skill,

—less emphasis on direct teaching and more emphasis on independent study,

—telling the students what their problems were and allowing them to work on the problem in their own way,

—bringing in parents to teach reading at home,

—and money pumped in from the state to hire classroom aides and reading experts.

Files were kept on the some 17,150 students ranging from grades two through eight on the exact reading level they had achieved. Steps were the basis of promotion rather than the traditional practice of covering a certain textbook or quantity of materials during the school year.

One of the participating schools in Santa Ana found their children to double reading proficiency by the program and another school in Vista improved reading habits an average of 1.2 years.

The Vista figure was determined by dividing the reading ability in school by the actual grade of attendance.

SD Cub Scouts In 2-Mile-High Kite Contest

Thousands of San Diego Cub Scouts are poised to break the two-mile-high kite flying record set recently by a fellow Scout Pack in Northern California. The San Diego Kite Fly Contest will be held at Fiesta Island, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday.

The event is the Chun King "King of the Sky" kite contest, and the record is a kite flown for three hours and fifteen minutes reaching a height of 10,650 feet. The record was set by Pack 41 of Mountain View.

Corsair Field in Santa Monica, College of the Canyons in Newhall, and Los Angeles Valley College in the San Fernando Valley were the sites of the Los Angeles contests on June 4 and 11.

Each of the three hundred participating Cub Scout Packs will be judged on the highest flying kite flown for the longest duration in daylight hours. Special instruments will be used to measure the kite's height.

The winning San Diego area Cub Scout Park will receive an all-expense-paid trip to Disneyland in Anaheim over AMTRAK. Trophies will be awarded to the three top winners, ribbons presented to all participating Packs and certificates to each scout.

Chun King will provide each of the Scout Packs with a kite and sufficient string to set any record. Each "King of the Sky" kite has a fiery green dragon face on the front with a thirty-foot-long red and yellow tail which can be seen a mile away.

The Boy Scouts of the San Diego County Council are also invited to participate by photographing and submitting the best protograph of the event. Photographs will be judged on creativity and quality and the winner will be awarded a Polaroid Pronto Camera.

Chun King Oriental Foods, a product line of RJR Foods, Inc., is sponsoring the kite and photography contest as part of a national campaign to introduce the "King of the Sky" kite to consumers.

Bardella, Laddie Stakes at LosAl

LOS ALAMITOS — Many of the country's best 2-year-olds are expected to clash in the 18th running of the 350-yard Bardella Stakes this Friday at Los Alamitos while 3-year-old colts and geldings grab the spotlight Saturday in the second renewal of the $15,000-added Laddie Stakes at 400 yards.

The Bardella figures to bring several outstanding youngsters including $160,000 Bay Meadows Futurity winner Kingdom Key, Leo Stakes winner Easy Della Jet, Bay Meadows Futurity runnerup Pass The Jug, the fastest qualifier to that northern California classic Jet Volley and the highly-regarded Town Policy.

But it's Saturday's Laddie Stakes that has attracted much of the attention with many of the stars from last month's $90,200 Los Alamitos Derby and derby trials competing in the Laddie, which was started last year.

The Bulldogger, Truly Terrific, Truly's Easter, Domegood, Humbolt, Suwanee Jude, Think Money, Tuxedo Junction, Hes'wright, and Mr. Jet Moore 2 are all among those that figure to go postward in the Laddie.

The Bulldogger captured the $250,000 Golden State Derby at Bay Meadows and posted the fastest qualifying time to the Los Alamitos Derby before finishing fourth in that event. His status for the Laddie was still questionable as of this writing but he looms as the horse to beat should he enter.

Local Youth Gain Two Bronze Medals

30 area youths, 10-15 took part in the regional Arco-Jesse Owens track meet Saturday at Cal. State U., Los Angeles. The event was preceded by city-wide meets throughout the state.

More than 140 youth participated in the La Mesa-Spring Valley meet which was held at Helix High school May 14. The local meets were sponsored by the La Mesa and Spring Valley Recreation Departments.

Two medallions were captured by local youths from among the 1,400 taking part statewide.

Tina Cole, Spring Valley, was 3rd in the 10-11 year old long jump while Ken Miner gained a bronze in the 10-11 50-yard dash.

National finals will be at UCLA August 13.

Ed Hale — Dressed For the Occasion

He Wore His Tuxedo— Until He Got Action

They were pouring the champagne for smiling Ed Hale Saturday and he was well-dressed for the party.

He was in his customary tuxedo, which he wears over his fireprooof driver's suit, and he was toast for winning the 40-lap super stock car feature at Cajon Speedway. Even if it was a non-points race.

Hale's convertible Challenger motored home ahead of young Jerry Baxter of San Diego by 6 car lengths in the time of 12 minutes, 18.84 seconds. Another young performance by Larry Lyon of Santee, finished third while George Esau of San Diego was fourth and Ron Overman of El Cajon was fifth.

The smiling mechanic and bricklayer from Lakeside thus became the seventh different main event winner this year. This was his 22nd career triumph.

The super stock car drivers will go after important points again Saturday night at Cajon Speedway.

And, after a week's extra work, several of the cars damaged two weeks ago are expected to be back in action.

Time trials start at 6:30 p.m. with the four-lap trophy dash set for 8 p.m. The program will include the third Powder Puff Derby 10-lapper, too.

MyIntyre Still Leads

Pat McIntyre of Spring Valley, who made one of his few slips last week, still maintains the lead in the ECSCA standings. He leads Mike Hagerman of El Cajon, 1470 points to 875, while Lanny Pemberton of Lemon Grove is third with 870.

Barbara Baxter of El Cajon, who is dominating the lady ranks almost as much as McIntyre is with the men, is ahead of the Powder Puff standings as she bids for a second straight title.

Besides the 40-lap feature for 22 of the fastest cars, the 10th program of the season includes four 8-lap heats, a 10-lap consolation, and a 20-lap semi-main. The semi's have become almost as competitive as the features.

Jim Brown Heads Hall of Champs

Jim Brown, well known San Diego businessman and sports enthusiast, has been elected president of Balboa Park's Hall of Champions and will succeed Anderson Borthwick as head of the organization July 1.

Borthwick, who has served three terms as president of the nationally-recognized sports museum, will continue as a member of the Board of Trustees.

A native of La Jolla and an athlete himself in high school and at the U. of Arizona, Brown owns a Mission Valley automobile dealership and is associated with numerous civic activities.

Elected as vice presidents are Art Jacobs, Steve Horrell and Ken Bojens, while Cletus "Biff" Gardner was named treasurer, and the Hall's executive director, Capt. Arthur T. Emerson, USN (Ret.), continues as secretary. Assistant director is Harry Hache.

Along with the officers, other Trustees are Bob Breitbard, Don Clarkson, Joe Holmes, Bob Ortman, Ralph Smith, Darrell Smith, John D. Butler, Al Couppee, George Zeidell, Norrie West, Junior Todd, Joseph Torres, Duke Ferrara, Ray Hoobler, Mil Chipp, Ed Scott and Leo Calland.

Millionaire Ancient Title, defending champ Pay Tribute and the vastly-improved Mark's Place are just three of the Gold Cup eligibles set to battle Crysal Water in the "Race of Champions", which now ranks as the richest race in America for older horses.

To be raced at a mile and one-quarter, the prestigious Gold Cup will be the first half of a power-packed doubleheader at Hollypark next weekend. Sunday, Father's Day, the Inglewood track definitely will distribute $26,000 in Sunday Sweep prize money.

Top Eastern Clubs Are Padres Guests

The last look at opponents from the National League's Eastern Division for a month will be afforded the Padres in the next week as the club plays host to the surprising Chicago Cubs plus the St. Louis Cardinals and Pittsburgh Pirates.

The three clubs are among the top four in the Eastern Division with the Cubs being the real surprise of the National League season to date. Picked by many to finish either at the bottom of the heap in the East or just one rung up from the cellar, the Cubs have really been fooling the odds-makers. The leaders in the East for the past few weeks, the Cubs raised their stock recently by taking a big series from the Western Division leading Los Angeles Dodgers.

San Diego and Chicago will meet in the last of 3 games tonight at 7 to thus set the stage for the invasion of St. Louis and Pittsburgh.

The Cardinals will be in town for Friday-Saturday-Sunday affairs, with games getting underway at 7 p.m. the first two days and then at 1 p.m. in the Sunday series finale.

Rounding out the lone homestand for the month of June will be three games with the Pittsburgh Pirates Monday through Wednesday, June 20-22. All three encounters are slated for 7 p.m. starts at San Diego Stadium.

Pirates in Windup

The matchup with the Pirates close out competition for a while with the Eastern Division as the Padres won't swing back into play against the East until July 21 when the club opens a three-game home series with the rejuvenated New York Mets. In between, the Padres will be playing 23 straight against the other five members of the National League's Western Division.

For the final portion of the June homestand the Padres have lined up a couple of "guaranteed winners" for the fans in the way of special promotions.

The top attraction on the calendar figures to be Let's Dine Out Helmet Night on Saturday when the Padres host the St. Louis Cardinals in the second of three consecutive meetings with the Redbirds. The first 25,000 youngsters 14 years of age and under attending the game that evening will receive a free souvenir Padre batting helmet from Let's Dine Out.

Also, the Padres will be holding their second of three Family Bargain Nights on Monday in the series opener against the Pittsburgh Pirates. All seats will be selling at greatly reduced prices.

Padres Invest Heavily In June College Draft

The San Diego Padres went heavily for pitchers and college players in the just completed June Free Agent Draft, but yet, it was high school outfielder Brian Greer who emerged as the club's number one pick in the Regular Phase.

In all, the Padres made 28 selections in the Regular Phase, but passed when it came time for the Secondary Phase. Unlike the club's more advantageous number eight position in the Regular, the Padres were hampered by being the 21st in the Secondary Phase which prompted the club to make no selection.

Pitching dominated the Padres picks as almost half, 12, were hurlers with the club going for seven righthanders and five lefthanders. Additionally, San Diego also chose nine infielders, five outfielders and two catchers.

"Brian is a total individual," related Padres Vice President of Player Personnel Bob Fontaine regarding the club's number one pick. "He's a fine student and an exceptional athlete. For one thing, he's been offered a full football scholarship to UCLA which should give you some idea of his athletic abilities.

Complete Ball Player

"He has the chance to become a complete ball player. He possesses the necessary tools in that he is a good runner and thrower. He has a very strong throwing arm plus he's got good size and power."

Greer prepped at Sonora High School in La Habra and hit a lofty .460 in 23 games this past season including a .425 mark in Orange League competition. For the season he collected 32 hits, more than half of them for extra bases as he rapped out seven doubles, six triples and six home runs plus he contributed 30 runs batted in.

A four-year veteran of varsity baseball at Sonora, the 6-3, 210-pound, 18-year-old Greer was an all-round athlete as he starred as a fullback and linebacker in football and played basketball as a freshman and sophomore prior to concentrating on football and baseball his final two years.

TAKE FIVE

by John E. Wirges

Every neighborhood has someone like Al Swartz serving up unfair examples of husbandry to the wives of lesser men of the immediate community.

You know what I mean. Swartz always mows his lawn before it really needs a clipping. His hedges are always trimmed. He can do almost anything with (1) wood, (2) cement and/or paint that a professional can do and Swartz rubs our noses in it by doing something with one of the above every weekend.

His house looks better now, some 15 years after creation, than it did the day it was born. It doesn't help much to say his wife is cut from the same mold. The Swartz place looks even better inside, if that's possible, than it does from the sidewalk.

And you know where that leaves the rest of the husbands on our street. You guessed it. Growing up on the wrong side of the name game.

"How come our house doesn't look as nice as the Swartzes house," is the preliminary battle statement to every demand for home improvement as far as the tongue can wag.

It is usually followed up with such specific reminders as "You promised to paint the bathroom," "The kid's bedroom window is still broken." I forgot to mention that Al Swartz is also one helluva glazier.

The thing that makes him most unsufferable is the way he offers to help others. He has no class. He makes his offers of help right in front of the poor guy's wife. Sometimes even directly to her.

He'll catch you and your good lady hauling out the garbage or something and he'll say "I'll be glad to give you a hand if you want to cut that dead tree down this Saturday."

It's almost uncanny the way he knows your wife has been on your back about that ugly, damn tree in the first place.

And sure enough, come Saturday morning, when you are almost sure your wife has let it slip her mind and there's a chance you can sneak out, Swartz rings your doorbell with a saw in his hand and an ugly, good-neighbor grin on his face.

In the name of all the husbands in our neighborhood and perhaps all the husbands of the world, I got even with Al Swartz.

I gave him a little gift. It was absolutely the most underhanded, nasty, foul and obnoxious thing I have ever done. I loved it. It was pure genius. I gave him three golf balls. Three brand new, still in the package, golf balls.

And now he's hooked. He had to buy a putter, of course, and a practice putting cup. But that's just the beginning. Oh, I got him good. There's no way he can get out of it for less than $1,000.

First he'll have to get some clubs. A used set might do at first, but Al is going to have to match up his own swing weight and style. Figure $135 for the woods and another $165 for the irons.

Then there are lessons. Al is a learned man. He knows the value of instruction and he'll find a good one. He's good for a series of 10 or 15 lessons at $10 each.

And Swartz wears business suits to work and grubbies around the house when he's working, but he has nothing to challenge the splendor of men's golf fashions. He'll need at least a dozen sports shirts, a half dozen sweaters and a like number of slacks in assorted hues.

And that's not saying anything about shoes, hats, golf bags, club covers, membership dues and weekly bar tab when he gets into his own foursome.

And he'll lose at least five hours every Saturday and Sunday to the course from his home improvement time. Isn't that dandy?

Now he'll be just like the rest of us. And his house will be like ours pretty soon, too.

It was downright evil, I suppose, but giving him those three golf balls was a stroke of pure genius.

Tickets Grow Scarce For WTT All-Star Game

Chris Evert leads the women's team selected to represent the western division in the World Team Tennis All-Star match scheduled July 9 at the Sports Arena.

Joining Evert, who plays for Phoenix, will be teammate Kristien Shaw, Betty Stove (Seattle-Portland) and Francoise Durr (Golden Gate).

The players were announced by WTT commissioner Butch Buchholtz who will name a fifth woman to the team at a later date.

The All-Star match includes five sets — women's and men's singles and doubles and mixed doubles and the team score between the WTT's western and eastern divisions will be determined on the total games won. The west won last year in Oakland, 28-27, in a super tiebreaker.

13,000 Seats Sold

The San Diego Friars, which are hosting the event, report that more than one-third of the Sports Arena's more than 13,000 seats already have been sold, indicating the largest crowd ever for a tennis match in the western part of the United States. The first set will start at 8 p.m.

Evert, the world's top-ranked woman player, is in her second WTT season and clearly is the league's dominant singles player. She won 15 of her first 20 singles matches and won 107-72 in games. Her doubles record, with Shaw, was 12-8.

Durr, the soft-stroking French player, is most proficient in mixed doubles where her 12-4 record and 88-64 in games easily is best in the division. Stove, whose serve is the most powerful among all women players, plays either singles or doubles but most probably will be restricted to the latter role in the All-Star match.

Coach of the western team is Ross Case of the Phoenix Racquets, division winners last year.

Tickets for the All-Star match are now on sale at the Sports Arena box office.

Former Champ Arrendondo Loses Coliseum Decision

By Max Goodwin

There are two ways to look at boxing fans.

There are those who wouldn't miss a good scrap for anything.

Others are those who have never been to a good exciting professional scrap.

The latter should attend one of the bi-weekly cards held at the S.D. Coliseum at 15th and E sts. They'll come away with a sense of excitement created by few sports events. Friday was a case in point.

The referee, at the beginning of each bout, admonishes the gladiators to "protect yourself at all times, and may the best man win."

Often the fighters obey. When it doesn't, "it's anybody's horse race."

In 25 rounds of boxing Friday, there was bound to be some bad along with the good. On the good side was the Scipio Stubbs-Manuel Real scrap. Scipio's main complaint is that no one in the press—this column excepted — spells it properly — SCIPIO. Scipio, 125, dispatched Real, 126, at 1:30 of the 4th round of a 4-round bout to make his record 4-0. This youngster is an exciting battler.

Crowd Pleaser

Greg Stephens, 151, decked Ricky Gibbs, 154, at 2:21 of the second round of their 6-round battle in a wild-swinging crowd-pleasing bout.

"Spud" Murphy, 126, a Hoover High school student, who turned 18 earlier this month (the minimum professional fighting age), made his debut at the Coliseum Friday. He dispatched "Smokey" Burns, 125, at 2:52 of the first round of a scheduled 5-round contest. It was the first scrap for both men. It should be recorded that Burns is 29. Murphy is trained by his father, a former pro fighter.

The least interesting fight on the card was the main go between former world lightweight champion Ricardo Arrendondo, 141, who was beaten by Rogelio Castenado, 138½ in a 10-rounder. Both fighters displayed a fine defensive ability but in boxing there's got to be an offense. To Arrendondo's credit, he has been in the U.S. four months and spent his time learning to speak English — well, pretty good.

Next week, one of the featherweights who is certain to become everybody's favorite at the Coliseum is back. Speedy Gonzales, the Miami flash, who hoots his opponent into frustration while he hammers him into submissiion is scheduled to meet Alejandro Lopez, Tijuana featherweight champ.

6-8 Frank Walsh Recruited By USD

Basketball recruiting season has finally come to an end for USD basketball coach Jim Brovelli. Over the weekend Brovelli signed six foot-eight inch Frank Walsh, a center out of Foothill Junior College.

"We needed to find a center who could step in and replace Gary Ely and Steve Honz (both lost to graduation). At this time I feel we have done that by signing Frank Walsh. He is very physical and can perform at both ends of the court," Brovelli said.

Walsh, as a sophomore last year, averaged 18.2 ppg and 10.2 rpg which helped earn him All-Golden Gate Conference honors for the Owls. His frosh season was spent at Kansas State University where he performed in five varsity contests and ten J.V. games. He then stayed another year at Kansas State as a red-shirt prior to attending Foothill.

Littler, Winfield, Fingers Top HoC

Hall of Fame golfer Gene Littler and Padre baseball mainstays Rollie Fingers and Dave Winfield have been elected professional Stars of the Month for May by the Hall of Champions Breitbard Athletic Awards Committee.

Similar honors were granted a pair of amateurs, Kevin McWhirter and Gary Armstrong, who played prominent roles in leading the powerful San Diego State Aztecs through one of their best baseball seasons in history.

McWhirter, already named his team's most valuable performer, batted .357 with eight homers and 58 RBIs and starred defensively in the outfield, while Armstrong, rated among the finest shortshops in collegiate ranks, established a number of new club records, including most at bats, most walks, most hits and most games played.

Littler Tops 11 Times

During his long career as one of the world's best golfers, Littler has earned Star of the Month awards on 11 previous occasions and twice was picked as Star of the Year.

The smooth-swinging La Jollan, who underwent successful cancer surgery in 1972, was recognized this time for winning the $40,000 first prize in the Houston Open and lifting his 1977 earnings over the $88,000 mark.

Fingers and Winfield were chosen for their individual efforts in helping lead the Padres out of a severe early-season slump. In May Fingers, ace of the relief staff, worked 33 innings, picked up a victory and had 10 saves, bringing his total to 13.

Winfield, Too

One of the National League's best all-around outfielders, Winfield got seven home runs during the month, drove in 25 runs and also personally acounted for two victories with game-winning hits.

The Awards Committee also voted Certificate of Achievement for Janet Newberry, a product of La Jolla's Bishop School, for winning the women's professional singles title in the Italian International tennis Championships and Point Loma College's Bill Waters, who captured the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics decathlon title with a 10-event point total of 7,365.

Breakers Franchise Is Top Digger . . . Rosie

SAN DIEGO — On Hallowe'en, 1950, Rosie Wegrich was born.

Twenty-four and one-half years later she became a treat for the San Diego Breakers and a treatment for their opponents. She is an All-Star defense specialist in the International Volleyball Assn.

Now, as the Breakers and Rosie get ready for their third season home opener June 30 against the Tucson Sky, she has three claims to fame (1) she is the only defense specialist named first team All-IVA in 1975 and 1976; (2) she was the only woman ranked in the top 10 in assists, digs and serve receiving last season; and (3) she is a busy young lady in the off-season, too.

Rosie is, like numerous other IVA players, a college coach.

"The past two years I coached volleyball at the University of Minnesota," she said. "I also assisted in basketball. But after two years there, I decided to switch. Next fall I'll be at the University of Arizona. I also want to start working toward my master's degree."

She grew up in the southern California beach volleyball hotbed of Manhattan Beach and played at UCLA. She remembers well the adjustment she underwent in the IVA's first season. She no longer played near the net. Her role as a defense specialist was primarily to dig and pass.

"I think the importance of passing has been overlooked in the United States," she said. "It's coming into its own, now. Without a good pass the setter can't isolate the spiker.

"The women's role is just as important as the men's, even though what we do isn't as flashy as a hard spike or a strong block. I like to think of myself as part of the team, and the team is like your family."

The cute 5-foot-5 brunette concedes that this season will not be as easy as 1976, when the Breakers won the league championship, the first for any San Diego professional team since the football Chargers in 1963.

After beating the Tucson Sky in five-game exhibition matches on June 2 and June 3, and dividing four games with El Paso/Juarez the next night, Rosie observed, "I would like to think our team is in the top three in the league right now."

Joie Chitwood Due Sunday At Ascot

GARDENA — The Joie Chitwood Thril l Show and the Figure-8 Auto Racing Assn. will combine to present a daredevil Flathers' Day doubleheader at J. C. Agajanian's Ascot Sunday at 8:30 p.m.

The Chitwood group, recently featured on the ABC's "Wide World of Sports," and Figure-8's climax an attractive weekend program at Ascot also including NASCAR modified stock cars on Friday at 8:30 p.m. and off-road sprint buggies and Baja VW sedans Saturday at 8 p.m.

Joie Chitwood, Jr., himself, will take on the most dangerous assignments in the 21-stunt program featuring all new Chevrolets. There will be slides, spins, roll-overs, crashes, precision driving on four and two wheels, and a "Coca-Cola" cannon jump.

Joie, Jr., son of Joie Chitwood, former Indy driver and long-time performer on the thrill circuit himself, got interested in his father's show at the tender age of five. Joie, Jr. is now a 28-year veteran of the arena himself. He originated the cannon idea in which he explodes 65 feet through the air in a 1977 Chevrolet.

Where To Find 'Em

Only three species of the manatee, better known as the "sea cow" have been discovered. One is found off the west coast of Africa, another off the eastern coast of South America and the other near Florida's shores.

Five Named 'Outstanding' '76-'77 Crusader Athletes

Barrie Elliott has been named Point Loma College's Most Outstanding Athlete for 1976-77 and awarded the $1,000 Meguiar Memorial Scholarship. Elliott is a 6'6" forward, from Orange, who will be a senior next year.

At the recent ceremony, four other Crusader athletes were also honored. Patty Patterson was chosen the Outstanding Female Athlete, Mike Leffel was presented the Academic Excellence Award, Mickey Swen was named the Most Improved Athlete and Newman Osebor was picked for the Outstanding Freshman Athlete Award.

Barrie Elliott was the third-ranked Crusader scorer during the 1976-77 basketball season averaging 10.4 points per game. His field goal percentage was 47 and he shot 65 per cent from the line. The season just passed was Elliott's first with the Crusaders after playing for Santa Ana Junior College where he averaged 12 points and 7 rebounds per game. He is a physical education/business major.

Patterson All-Rounder

Patty Patterson displayed prowess in three sports during the year. Early on, according to Coach Glenda Ritchie, she was noted for her great one-arm saves in volleyball. In basketball she played all three positions during the season. And in softball she was the starting pitcher in every game except one. With a .563 batting average, she led the team with two home runs and two triples. From San Diego, Patty Patterson will be a sophomore next year.

Mike Leffel culminated four years of college baseball with a senior season of 34 stolen bases and .287 batting average while maintaining a 3.93 grade point average. This fall the former outfielder from Fullerton, Calif., will pursue graduate study in psychology at Long Beach State.

Mickey Swen is a catcher from Bakersfield, Calif. While catching for all but two innings during the 1977 baseball season, he led the Crusaders in home runs with 7 and RBIs with 25. His average was .269. Next year Swen will be a senior at Point Loma College.

Newman Osebor competes in the long jump and the triple jump. He was injured during the 1977 track season before working up to his personal records in those events (25'6" and 50'11"). From Lagas, Nigeria, he will be a sophomore next year.

U.S. Midgets Due At S.B. Oval Fri.

Some of the greatest midget auto action has been on a quarter-mile dirt oval. San Diego fans might recall the great action at the old Balboa Stadium track.

Now, promoter Don Basile has booked the U.S. Racing Club midgets for the banked quarter Friday night to share a program with the South Bay Racing Assn. street stockers.

Time trials for the midgets will begin at 7 p.m. The first race is set for an 8:15 start at South Bay Park Speedway.

This marks the second appearance this year for the midgets at South Bay but the last time they were on the half mile.

Besides the feature, the street stockers will compete in two heats and a trophy dash.

Eighteen midgets will bid for the 30-lap main event after a trophy dash and semi-main.

Most of these powerhouses will be using VW engines, although a few Offies, Siscos and Chevy IIs will be used as well.

Variety is Spice Of Wrestling Life At Coliseum Tues.

For those who want variety in wrestling, the Coliseum's the place Tuesday night.

First off, there's the American Heavyweight Championship bout which matches the champ Bull Ramos and Mando Guererro. The two men will be tied together with a 9-ft. leather strap and any physical act is permited.

Then there's a Lmberjack Bout at which pickets will stand at ringside to deter either wrestler from respite by climbing through the ropes. As an added penalty, the loser is required to leave town. In that one it's Tank Patton against Roddy Piper. They're both mean and many think it would be useful if both were banned from the city.

There's also a 3 plus 3 match. Three men — Tom Jones, Chavo Guererro and Black Gordman — are in the match. 2 of the 3 start and one must win two falls in a row. Then he takes on the 3rd man and one must again win 2 falls in a row.

Then there's just a plain tag team match. In it are K.O. Perez and Texas Red in a meeting with Victor Rivera and The Hangman.

It all starts Tuesday at 7:30 at the Coliseum, 15th and E sts.

HEALTH TIPS . . . Pulmonary Emphysema

Pulmonary emphysema is a potentially serious lung disorder. It is particularly prevalent in the middle years and beyond. The disease tends to develop gradually, and all too often has reached an advanced stage before the patient seeks medical treatment.

Symptoms which should suggest a visit to the doctor include shortness of breath even on mild exertion, inability to breathe deeply and rapidly, persistent coughing and wheezing, and the production of considerable mucus. Dizziness and fatigue on mild exertion may also accur.

Coughing and wheezing are also symptoms of asthma and chronic bronchitis. In fact, in many patients asthma and bronchitis may precede or coexist with emphysema.

Asthma and bronchitis are disorders of the bronchial tubes — the passageways through which air reaches the lungs.

With emphysema, there is damage to the lung itself. The walls between the tiny air sacs in the lung deteriorate and the lung loses its elasticity

As a result, there is difficulty exhaling, and breathing becomes difficult and very tiring. Eventually the patient may have a problem getting an adequate supply of oxygen to the blood.

At times, almost everyone experiences shortness of breath and some cough. There are many disorders other than emphysema, asthma or bronchitis that produce these symptoms, and persons with no chronic lung disease may have them.

Simple tests of lung function can indicate whether or not emphysema or another disease is responsible for the symptoms. Having these tests early may relieve the patient of needless anxiety.

More importantly, they should be done early to detect the disease before irreversible damage has developed. The "typical" emphysema patient when first seen by a doctor for shortness of breath already has suffered an appreciable amount of lung destruction.

Such damage cannot be reversed, but there is a good deal that a doctor, with the patient's cooperation, can do to slow progression of the disease and to minimize complications.

The causes of emphysema are not fully known. Smoking seems to be a major factor. There may be an hereditary factor in some cases, when a protein deficiency or abnormality deprives the lung of its normal protection. Once the disease begins, lung deterioration is markedly accelerated by smoking and by exposure to air pollution.

The patient with emphysema who quits smoking can expect some improvement in his or her symptoms are inflammation of the airways subsides. Clearing of the airways may be aided by the following supportive measures:

- High fluid intake (10 to 12 glasses of water or juice per day) to keep the sputum more fluid so as to aid in raising of secretions.
- Avoidance of irritating inhalants such as dust, fumes and polluted air.
- Antibiotic therapy at the first sign of a chest cold.
- Yearly flu immunization.
- Avoidance of crowds when respiratory infections are prevalent.
- Use of air conditioners in hot weather and masks in cold weather to help prevent bouts of shortness of breath.
- Maintenance of proper nutrition.

The physician may prescribe bronchodilator medications to be taken in tablet or nebulizer firm to open the airways. In severe cases, where there is actually inadequate oxygen in the blood, the physician may recommend use of oxygen.

Drainage of stagnant secretions is accomplished by (1) clapping, or vibrating, the chest to loosen the secretions and (2) head-low posture so that gravity will assist the removal of secretion.

Proper breathing is often "discovered" by the patient. Pursing the lips so as to keep the small airways from collapsing during exhalation and deliberately taking three times as long for exhalation as for inhalation are useful measures to enhance exchange of gases in the patient's lungs.

One of the most essential aspects of treatment is exercise conditioning. The patient who follows a regular, sustained exercise program will uniformly improve exercise capability. This improvement helps him or her perform more activity with less shortness of breath.

The patient can use a stationary exercise bicycle,walk or ride a bicycle for a certain distance that can be gradually increased both in distance and speed. This sort of exercise program should be undertaken only after a physician evaluates the heart and lung function to determine the safety of such a program.

Emphysema cannot be cured but if it is detected early contributing factors can be eliminated and the rate of development may be slowed down. The patient must come to terms with the disease but that need not mean giving up work, family relationships and the other gratifications of a full life.

National City Fair Was Forerunner Of Present S. Cal. Exposition

This year's 88th Annual Southern California Exposition promises to be the biggest event ever held around the Del Mar Race track.

This year the attendance may swell over the records set in 1974 when 610,894 Expo visitors passed through the turnstiles.

Last year some 605,889 people visited the Expo during the 14 day run.

The little fair which began in National City in 1880 known as the Agricultural and Horticultural Fair for the County of San Diego has grown enormously from humble beginnings.

The 1880 fair gave initial offerings of $200 cash and "diplomas".

The fair was moved from National City to Del Mar in 1936 when the fairgrounds were built in the site of a golf course as a Roosevelt WPA project.

Funds ran out before the fairgrounds were completed and the future of the fair seemed undetermined.

But two philanthropists, one from Rancho Santa Fe and the other from Del Mar, stepped in to finish the project. The two were singer Bing Crosby of Del Mar and Actor Pat O'Brien of Rancho Santa Fe.

Crosby and O'Brien were instrumental in receiving a 20 year franchise for thoroughbred racing at Del Mar and began races under the banner of the Del Mar Turf Club.

The pair also were the main promoters of the San Diego County Fair and Citrus Show, the granddaddy of the present Expo.

A 1933 law turned out to be the best shot at financing the fair. The Horse Racing Act of 1933 allowed pari-mutuel wagering at the track. For every $1 wagered by a fan, 7.5 percent would go into the state's coffers. Some 10.8 percent of that take was earmarked for the fair.

In 1950, the directors of the fair decided to allow entries from outside of San Diego County. The name was then changed to accommodate these changes.

This year's fair will have some $1,040,000 in improvements. The main entrance to the grandstand has been expanded along with improvements to the grandstand making for larger display areas for the home arts department and the junior exhibitors.

Admission for this year's 88th Expo will be $2 for adults and 50 cents for children.

Second generation Argentinian and reining Fairest of the Fair, Miss Rita Garcia along with Tommy Hernandez, Don Diego for his 30th year, are special emmissaries for the fair.

Ian Guinn Is Second Grove Entry In Derby

Eight month old Ian M. Guinn will join another Lemon Grove eight month old, Sandra Lujan, for preliminary rounds of the Southern California Exposition's Diaper Derby held June 30.

He, along with Sandra who became the first entry in the competition last week, will go against 13 other county area crawlers in the third preliminary all vieing for spots in the finals to be held July 2 at 1:30 p.m.

Little Ian's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Guinn of Lemon Grove, decided to enter their infant since he is a fast, quick crawler.

His preliminary will be held at 4:30 p.m. on the Community Stage.

The Expo runs from June 24 through July 4.

3-Months Intensive Treatment For I-5 Starts in September

How additional patrol hours affect traffic accident experience on selected segments of California highways will be the subject of a six-month study by the California Highway Patrol.

Commissioner Glen Craig said the Manpower Augmentation Project received federal funding of more than $800,000 to provide approximately 41,000 hours of overtime Patrol between June 1 and November 30.

Two groups of highway segments were chosen for the experiment, based on present accident counts, manpower presently assigned and vehicle mileage. One group will receive additional coverage during the first three months; the other during the last three. San Diego's I-5 gets the treatment September 1-November 30.

Craig said the project "contrasts with previous experimental applications of added patrol time in that it extends over longer periods and is keyed to specific roadway segments." Previous federally funded programs have increased manhours during short periods, such as holiday weekends.

The study is intended to determine if a relatively large increase in manpower levels on selected CHP beats will cause a decrease in fatal and injury accidents.

Officers will work a full shift of overtime on their regular shift.

Building Permits Gain

8,016 building permits have been issued through May this year in San Diego County. Last year the total for the same period was 6,682.

In money, the 1977 total is $180,050,277 against 143,875,156 last year.

Deddeh Offers Info On Mobilehome Life

"Almost a million Californians live in mobile homes and these consumers have numerous rights under California law," according to Assemblyman Wadie P. Deddeh (D-S.D.).

To provide these individuals as well as potential mobile home purchasers with valuable information on mobile home buying and mobile home park tenants laws, the California Department of Consumer Affairs, Motor Vehicles and Housing and Community Development have recently published "Mobile Homes. A Consumer's Guide."

The 12-page pamphlet includes information on where to take complaints about the mobile home, park management or conditions.

The pamphlet answers such questions as what to look for when buying a mobile home and choosing a mobile home park.

It also covers what to do if the home is improperly installed, the rules that mobile home park managements can establish, and what rights a mobile home park tenant has when selling a home.

"Those interested in securing this information may write my district office at 815 Third ave., Suite 219, Chula Vista 92011 or call 427-7080 and we will be happy to send them a copy of the publication," stated Deddeh.

PROMOTED — Former Lemon Grove Bank of America manager Carl C. Lacki has been promoted to assistant vice president with the bank's San Diego-Eastern California Region. Lacki has managed the Lemon Grove branch since 1973.

VA Cuts Back Ed. Benefits To A Record Low

The Veteran's Administration has authorized some 26,000 educational checks for this month, the lowest number of checks issued to U. S. veterans seeking education in the 33 year history of the agency.

The VA has in its computers some 900,000 to 1.2 million GI Bill accounts and will resume June payments to veterans beginning July 1.

The idea is to reduce VA overpayments. Some veterans were collecting educational benefits — their GI Bill checks — before the school session began and then after a few days at school, dropping out.

State Agency Tries Hand At Thwarting Bureaucratic Delays

SACRAMENTO — The California Department of Administrative Hearings laid down the law on bureaucratic delays but refrained from mentioning exactly what they were going to do about it.

A communique issued by Administrative Hearings director Herb Nobriga said the department "feels the citizens of California are entitled to fair, objective, and prompt resolution of differences that they may have with agencies of state government."

The department's job is to hear cases involving state boards and regulatory commissions. Citizens take appeals to this agency under the California Administrative Procedure Act.

"We hear many cases involving licensing by state boards and regulatory agencies," reinterated the Director, "I feel that the citizen who has to come to us appealing an agency's decision deserves to have their appeal acted upon with dispatch."

The department's head did say postponements in his department could take as long as a year for a rehearing.

The holdings of San Diego Gas and Electric Company have been set by the State Board of Equalization at $950 million, some $198 million more than last year.

The gas company will appeal the assessment. SDG&E believe they have grown only $98 million or 9.7 per cent while the state board says they have grown some 26.3 per cent.
